MEET THE FOUNDER

Vivian Jamal, founder of Maison V, brings a unique blend of passion, experience, and cultural influences to her jewellery designs. With a background in architectural engineering and an MBA from DePaul University, as well as further studies at IESE and Harvard, Vivian's career was initially in economic development for Bahrain. Yet, her love for jewellery and gemstones remained strong. When the time came to follow her passion, Vivian made a decisive shift, earning her gemmology certification from the prestigious Gemmological Association of the UK (Gem-A) and training under a master craftsman. These experiences honed her skills and set the foundation for Maison V.

Now fully dedicated to her brand, Vivian personally sources gemstones from around the world, combining Eastern and Western design elements inspired by her extensive travels and multicultural experiences. Her work reflects an artistic fusion of global influences, creating timeless jewellery that resonates with women who seek something unique and versatile.
